Est pars tertia libri in inscriptis:

Hobbs's Trilogia in three discourses, the first: Humane Nature or the fundamental Elements of policy, bring a discovery of the faculty, act and passion of the Soul of Man from their origine causes deriving to such philosophical principles as are not commonly known or asserted. The second de corpore politico or the Elements of Law moral and political, with discourses upon several heads, as to the Law of Nature, Duty, and Covenant; several kinds of Government; with the Change and Revolution of them.
The third of Liberty and Necessity wherein all contro-versie, concerning predestination, Election, Free-will, grace, merit, desert, etc. is fully decided and cleared. The third discourse is the most copious, and is the author's own hand.
The first two were written by Hobbs of Malmesbury, and the third the third was augmented by Henry Rogers and Tho. Fox. 1684. S.
